NEWS FOR VETERANS

Fall enrollments of veterans training under the Korean GI Bill have more than doubled the peak reached a year ago, and show signs of reaching still higher levels, the Veterans Administration has announced.

Also, VA said, this fall's flood of Korean GI trainees has cut, stripped a corresponding drop in World War II GI Bill enrollments.

On November 1, trainees under the Korean GI Bill totaled a record-breaking 451,000, of whom more than half, or 225,000, were attending college. The rest were training in below-college-level schools, on-the-job and on-the farm.

The total was more than twice the size of last year's figure of 217,000 veteran-trainees.

In contrast, November 1 enrollments under the waning World War II GI training program numbered 168,000 — less than half of the 346,000 World War veterans in training last year at this time.

VA said the 451,000 Korean GI Bill total for November 1 would grow to a still heavier figure by the end of the year.

gram. Rev. Carey presented our Thanksgiving sermon. Both he and Rev. Price sang a duet. This service was very inspirational and made us realize all the many wonderful blessings we have to be thankful for.

Monday morning the Annual Staff came to school prepared to take group pictures of the various organizations and the like. However due to some difficulty the photographer didn't show up. He, instead, came on Tuesday. The Annual Staff has another deadline to meet soon so that means a great deal of work for all of us.

Since we had no school for part of this week, news is sort of short. I think this covers most of the local happenings, however. Be looking for more news next week.

'Til then,

Jane.

Out of Depths

Lesson for December 5, 1954

Dr. Foreman

THE worst trouble is not what most people think. When you say "if the worst comes to the worst," what do you mean? You mean that if it comes to losing your job, or if we are defeated in war, or if you lose your health, or die. The inspired men who wrote the Bible did not think such events were good; they did not pray for them to happen but rather that they would not happen. Still, as we saw last week, even in the midst of terrible troubles they could sing because they knew that God is over all and they felt themselves on his side, at his side.

Breaking With God

But what happens when a man cannot feel that he is on God's side? How does it feel to know God is against you, not for you? How does it feel to be on the other side of a wall from God? Some of the Psalmists had been through an experience which we call by the simple name of Sin. Now sin is not merely single acts, it is the whole dark business of breaking with God. Sin is the state of things when a man and God are no longer partners. Sin is losing the one support a man can count on in time of trouble. If the worst comes to the worst, it is not death or pain or failure that is most to be feared, it is being loose and lost in the world without God. God never breaks with a man unless the man has broken first. But when a man has as good as acted as if there was no God at all; when he has as good as said to God, "Go your way and I'll go mine"; when he has done what God does not want done and failed to do what God wants done; when he has refused God's help, refused to associate with God's people, refused even to speak to God, what can God do with such a man? He could blast him out of existence in a twinkling, or he could compel his obedience; but God does not operate that way. In the simple, chilling words of St. Paul (Romans 1) God "gives up" such a man. He lets the man go his own way.

Without Hope

So long a man is unaware of his sin in God's sight, he can be pretty gay. A good many jolly people have gone the broad road to destruction. But once a man begins to see that there is a break between him and God, once he realizes what he has done, he enters the most terrifying experience it is possible for human beings to have. For now he knows . . . and how can he mend it? How can be come back? If God were his friend he would not fear any enemy, any trouble, any disaster. Even death would only bring him to the presence of his heavenly Father. But what if he has thrown away and despised the friendship of God? What if death only brings him face to face with the condemning judge? A man who has become aware of what sin is, what his own sin is, knows that unless God can do something about it, he is without hope in this world or the next. It is of no use to believe in the victory of eternal love if he himself has been fighting on the wrong side. Even if he makes a complete turn-about this very day, what about all the worse-than-wasted days before? He has done the damage, he has let loose evil in the world. Unless God comes to his rescue he is truly lost; but what claim has he on God? Why should God bother with him, a man who has never bothered about God?

'Thou Hast Delivered My Soul'

Those who have known and loved God best have thanked him for many blessings; but like the Psalmists of old, the greatest blessing and the one which underlies all others and makes them bright, is the forgiving love of God. God's forgiveness is not at all the same thing as looking the other way as a careless policeman might when a driver runs through a red light. It is not God's saying that it really makes no difference. It is God's unconquerable love reaching across the gulf between himself and us who have sinned. Three things we need to remember about this: one is that God's forgiveness is never forced on any one, never promised to those who do not turn from their sins to God. One is that when a man has known the real forgiveness of God he shows it in a changed life.

SHOPPING FOR CHILDREN AT CHRISTMAS TIME

It won't pay—if you're a grown-up shopping for children at Christmas time—to become bedazzled by the array of colorful toys now on the market.

Miss Amelia Fuller, home economist at VPI Agricultural Extension Service, says parents are often inclined to spend too much, or to invest in toys which are not adapted to the child's age or interest.

She has some suggestions, based on research of manufacturers, child specialists and teachers, which will ease toy shopping.

Good toys can be divided into three groups. Some, such as building blocks, stimulate imagination, and create initiative and effort. And some, used as brushes, brooms and scissors, help the child gain adult skills. Then there are toys which directly help physical and mental development, such as mechanical or construction toys.

A sound principle to follow in toy selection is to buy common objects of everyday life. Toys should have a creative purpose. The baby should have toys that will help him to handle, reach, crawl. The toddler needs coordination and balance which he will acquire through the use of pull toys, kiddy cars and swings. Tea sets and doll furniture help the older child learn to do things which she sees mother do.

Toys should be suitable to the child's age. The very young child needs toys that will exercise and develop the large muscles. The desire to investigate is natural with all children. For this reason playthings should be sturdy enough to be taken apart and put back together without destroying them.

Specifically:

For the child under one year, give hard rubber rattles, wooden beads securely strung, bathtub toys. A favorite is the cradle gym which can be attached to the play pen. It has a horizontal bar and a climbing rope strung with colorful balls or bells. The baby can use it with perfect safety.

The child from one to two years old likes toys which can be dragged, loaded and unloaded. Soft, cuddly animals which can be washed, and paper and crayons for scribbling, are also good. A sturdily built wooden wagon is another favorite.

The child from two to four has become an explorer and the following items have a special appeal: cars and wagons, tip-proof kiddy cars, low rocking-horses, dolls and doll clothes, top telephones, finger paint, and modeling clay.

Children from four to six have reached the "let's pretend" age. These youngsters will enjoy a blackboard and dustless chalk, simple construction sets, modeling clay, jigsaw puzzles, scooters, peddle cars and dress-up costumes, doll houses, fire engines and toy stores.

Youngsters, six to eight display an interest in group play. Boys like basketball and football outfits, carpentry sets, cowboy and other costumes. Girls like cooking utensils and other housekeeping toys, skipping ropes and dolls. Both boys and girls enjoy story books, games, musical instruments and table tennis sets.

At the age of eight to ten interests in hobbies begin to appear. Boys like advanced craft sets, basketball, football or baseball equipment. Girls like sewing sets, toy sewing machines, doll furniture and dolls. Books on travel, biography and history appeal to both boys and girls, as do artist paint and drawing materials.

SELECT TOBACCO PLANT BEDS

Select your tobacco plant bed location as soon as possible.

Agronomists at VPI say it hould be located on fertile, well-drained soil, away from shade and not subject to stream overflow. It should be on soil free of tobacco diseases, and if possible, near the house where is can be frequently checked.
